Family of Gardena Fire Chief Brings Suit Against P. E.

For the death on October 21 of Thomas Baldrick, chief engineer of the Gardena fire department, following a spectacular crash of several freight cars into a large oil tank on a siding, the widow and two children of the decedent will seek $50,000 in a suit filed in Wednesday.

The Pacific Electric Railroad Company, whose employees operated the switching engine that released the string of cars into the siding at too high speed, is named defendant in the action.

The widow, Mrs. Ruth Baldrick, and the children, Thomas, Jr., and Virginia, charge the railroad company's brakeman and engineer were negligent in switching the string of cars.

Young Men Break Lanterns On Sewer Work; Are Arrested

Tommy Bodin, stepson of Carl Teeple, William Farete and Lado Petrovich, were arrested February 10, on complaint of William B. Moss, in charge of CWA sewer construction in Lomita, who charged them with destroying lanterns placed along the line of sewer work at Oak and 255th streets in that city. The boys, in two cars, were said to have been amusing themselves by backing their cars into the piles of dirt and overturning the lanterns set there to warn motorists of danger.

Bodin and Farete were fined $100 or 50 days in the county jail each, when arraigned in the Lomita township justice court on February 13, the sentence being suspended on condition that the young men report twice a month to Constable Charles R. Taber at his office in Lomita.

The case against Petrovich, a minor, was held open for action in the juvenile court if those authorities see fit to handle it.
